WHY SUPPORT LIBRARIES?

As a critical “third place,” vibrant libraries bring communities together in shared spaces and help address the economic, social, and racial challenges that divide residents. The Fulton County Library System serves 1.1 million residents and is the largest library system in Georgia. Sixty percent of libraries are located in communities with lower socio-economic demographics, offering essential services and increased opportunity in neighborhoods where many families live paycheck to paycheck.

Our neighborhood libraries provide programs and services that extend beyond just books, enhancing access to technology, education, literacy, skill-building, and community resources for children and youth, job seekers, English language learners, and senior citizens.
